

NEW COALITION CABINET IS DISRUPTED TODAY

DEMONSTRATION OF MODERN AUTO FIRE PUMPER SEEN HERE

Great Volumes of Water Thrown By Newest Apparatus.

A demonstration of modern fire fighting equipment was given in Dixon this morning by an American-LaFrance combination pumper, which was shown in Sterling yesterday and stopped here overnight on invitation of Fire Chief Thomas Coffey. The volume of water thrown from city hydrants and from the river was the largest ever seen in Dixon.

W. L. Deitch, general manager of the American-LaFrance Fire Engine Company's Chicago agency, with H. A. Phillips, delivering engineer, assisted by Fire Chief Connie Nicol of the Sterling department and members of the Dixon department, put on the demonstration. The big pumper first attached a four inch suction lead to the hydrant at the corner of Hennepin avenue and Second street, pumping 350 gallons of water per minute with the pump not attached. With the pump delivering the water, 600 gallons per minute was thrown from one nozzle. The capacity of the pump under this condition is 750 gallons per minute.

Praises Dixon Service

"The fire fighting service in Dixon is very good," said Mr. Deitch, after viewing with city officials the first test. "I want to commend your city with having water service far above the average for cities of this size."

The pumper was then taken to the river bank in the Hoedt coal yard where it was subjected to the most severe tests. Using a one and three-quarter inch nozzle under 80 pounds pressure, 813 gallons of water per minute were thrown. With a two inch nozzle with the deluge attachment, 394 gallons per minute were thrown into the air with one stream. With an inch and one-half nozzle, 667 gallons per minute was pumped. The final test was given with three one-inch nozzles from the pumper, which threw 1116 gallons of water per minute into the air. The average nozzle used on the city truck is seven-eighths of one inch.

The machine and demonstration was viewed by several of the business men as well as city officials. The truck was driven out from Chicago and furnished a demonstration at Sterling yesterday afternoon. It returned to Chicago this noon.

Band Birds to Study Their Habits of Life

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—First hand information on the habits of birds and their actions under kindly treatment will be related at the annual convention of the Inland Bird Banding Association, which opens a two days session here today.

The association, of which S. Prentiss Baldwin of Cleveland is president, and William L. Lyons of Waukegan, Illinois, is secretary, was formed last year through the efforts of Mr. Baldwin.

Banding of wild birds, it is pointed out, was started a far back as 1719 in Turkey. The birds are trapped, numbered bands are placed on their legs, records made and then they are set free. Rarely is a bird injured in the process of capture or banding.

Records show that banded birds, returning to kindly treatment, return repeatedly. At Gates Mill, Georgia, winter hawks of the Baldwins, chipping sparrows numbered 2,349 was registered 43 times in one season.

The United States Biological Survey is cooperating with the Inland Bird Banding Association in its studies.

China Modernized By American Influence

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Nov. 2.—American shoes and stockings, jazz and modern dancing, the automobile have entered China to shake the foundation of the whole basic structure of its ancient civilization," Dr. Berthold Laufer, head of the anthropological division of the Field Museum and a student of China, declared today after his return from that country.

"The whole spirit of the people is modernized," Dr. Laufer said. "The old fashioned satin skull cap has given way to an American soft hat, and American socks and shoes are evidence in all places, supported by foreign umbrellas or canes."

As a result of this latest trip to the Orient, more than 2,000 new objects are to be added to the Chinese collection of the museum.

Cotton Price Jumps with Short Forecast

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Nov. 2.—Cotton jumped over 100 points in the local market today on publication of the Department of Agriculture's forecast of 10,248,000 bales.

Washington, Nov. 2.—A decrease of 767,000 bales in the prospective cotton crop as compared with a month ago was shown today in the Department of Agriculture's forecast of 10,248,000 bales based on conditions prevailing October 25.

The report was the first of its kind ever issued in November and had been awaited with interest by the cotton world in view of the scarcity of cotton and the diversity of opinion as to the exact size of this year's crop.

BRITAIN SEES BETTER CHANCE FOR CONFERENCE

France Will Join in Request That U. S. Send an Expert.

London, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Increasing confidence is felt in government quarters here over the prospects for the early organization and meeting of a special reparations committee on which an American economic expert will sit. In the exchange of views which is proceeding between London and Paris respecting the terminology of the collective allied invitation to the United States, Premier Poincare, it is learned, shows a perceptible desire to soften some of the restrictions he has already set forth.

FRANCE ACCEPTS U. S.

Paris, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—France accepts with cordiality the proposed collaboration of the United States in a conference of experts to study Germany's capacity to pay reparations. She demands, however, that it should be clearly understood that the proposed inquiry should bear solely on the "present" capacity of Germany and that it should respect all the rights held by the reparations commission under the treaty of Versailles.

This is the substance, it was learned today, of the reply which France has made to the British note of Oct. 31, asking her to join Italy, Belgium and Great Britain in a collective invitation to the United States to be represented at the proposed conference. The reply was handed to the British embassy yesterday. Its text was not made public.

Opposition to Dry Laws Will Not Last Decade Says Pepper

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Senator George W. Pepper of Pennsylvania, in an address last night before the Illinois Women's Republican Club, declared all opposition to prohibition will not last the decade.

"In ten years time," he said, "those who now break the Volstead law will have changed in their point of view or died or become unpopular."

He declared himself for rigid enforcement of the 18th amendment. Although prohibition enforcement at present is the greatest national question, in his opinion, he said, he could not see how it will be a party issue.

"It is to be expected," he said, "that state officers will blame their enforcement deficiencies upon the nation, and that the nation will relegate upon the states."

Senator Pepper declared himself in favor of the international high court with members elected by an electoral college, instead of by the league of nations delegates; participation in the German reparations conference "and tactical use of the Hughes foreign policy whereby the United States may take a hand in European affairs."

HARD GAME WITH STERLING IS SEEN BY DIXON LEGION

Opponents in Sunday's Battle to Present Strong Eleven.

The Sterling Independents and the Dixon Legion football teams will meet at Brown's Field Sunday afternoon and with proper weather conditions this game should draw the banner crowd of the season. The visitors are planning on taking away the long end of the score and after looking over their lineup, it is quite evident that the Legion will experience no small amount of difficulty in landing a victory.

Fane will rejoice in knowing that Risley and Currey will both be back in the game Sunday, and while they may not stick for the entire game, they will be in their positions at intervals. Austin is not exactly ready for the field, but will take up his position for a part of the contest. Barry may be unable to be there to assist in the backfield but Coach Dixon believes that with Hesse, Vaughan, Heinze and Dalton, he will be able to cope with the situation.

The Sterling Independents, while entering on their first year in football, have a strong aggregation and have had a very successful season thus far. Manager F. B. Wagner this morning forwarded his lineup, giving their weights and experience, which is as follows:

Dillon, 170 pounds, right end, Staunton Military academy.

Bradley, 185 pounds, center, Oak Park high school.

Vedman, 185 pounds, center, Illinois university.

Sipple, 180 pounds, full back, Geneseo high school.

Pundenburg, 180 pounds, half back, Rock Falls high school.

Angel, 160 pounds, half back, Cornell college.

Gehhardt, 160 pounds, quarter back, Evanston academy.

Burling, 160 pounds, half back, Rock Falls high school.

Sippre, 165 pounds, substitute, Sterling high school.

Underhill, 140 pounds, substitute, Princeton high school.

Wahl, 170 pounds, guard, Princeton high school.

ROCHELLE HIGH IS COMING TOMORROW, SEEKING REVENGE

Dixon Team Has Evolved New Plays to Foil Their Foe.

The Dixon high school football team will meet Rochelle high tomorrow afternoon on the Dixon field. Rochelle has a good team according to advance information received here. They have won all of their games with the exception of one contest, which they lost to Baunvia.

Coaches Bowers and Weiss have been giving their men a hard workout this week in preparation for Saturday's game. They have perfected a system of new plays and shifts which will be used for the first time tomorrow and which it is believed will baffle the visitors. Kynearson has not sufficiently recovered from his injuries to permit his playing and McNicol will preside at the quarter post. He has shown much promise and is expected to make a good showing tomorrow.

Visitors Seek Revenge

Rochelle is out for revenge as Dixon has defeated them the last two seasons. Dixon realizes this and will put all their effort into the game.

The largest pep meeting of the year was held this afternoon at the high school auditorium. The meeting was attended by both the north and south side students. Two girls of the high school sponsored the affair and from the amount of enthusiasm displayed by the student body it is evident that every member of both schools will back their team to the utmost Saturday.

Campbell, the regular quarter back, and Keenan, sub back, were ordered to turn in their uniforms this week for failure to abide by the rules laid out for the members of the team. The line up for tomorrow's game will be as follows:

Rosecrans, captain, center; Aschenbrenner, quarterback; Gardner, left guard; Reese, right tackle; Bondi, left tackle; McNeely, right end; Coss, left end; McNicol, quarter back; Phillips, right half back; Jones, left half back; Lahney, full back.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Five motor bandits, wearing handkerchiefs for masks, today held up the paymaster of the John Wyeth & Brothers Chemical Company and robbed him of $4,700 payroll. The holdup occurred a short way from the chemical plant as the paymaster was returning from a nearby bank.

Demand Sterling at New Low Mark Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Nov. 2.—Demand Sterling dropped nearly two cents to $4.46, a new low record for the year, at the opening of today's foreign exchange market.

Weakness of the British exchange resulted, it was stated, from speculative pessimism over reports from Washington that the United States would refuse to participate in the proposed reparations conference if Premier Poincare of France insists on limiting the scope of the inquiry at the outset.

Today's Sterling quotation is more than a cent below the previous low of $4.47 established October 23.

SMALLER FISH HATCHERY MAY BE ESTABLISHED

Dixon Has Chance to Get State Estab- lishment Now.

It is rumored that several thousand fingerlings are to be placed in Rock River, resocking the stream with game fish this fall, and anglers who prefer the Franklin Creek and others who have been in the habit of fishing at Phillips slough have made application to have both of these streams stocked this fall. The state fish car, it is said, will be in Dixon, placing several thousand crappies, bass, blue gills, pikes and pickerel in the local waters.

With this announcement, it is understood that while it has almost been definitely decided to place the state fish hatchery at Rockford, that an official hatchery is to be located in the northern part of the state and Dixon has a wonderful opportunity of securing this location. State officials last spring visited the state hospital and announced that it made an ideal location for such an enterprise, giving as their reasons, the fact that the state already owns the property, it is close to Rock River, and shipping facilities are ideal. A small hatchery could be very comfortably handled in this vicinity.

Officers of Bank
Are Found Guilty

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Harry H. Clark, president, and Irwin C. Hatridge, cashier of the defunct First State & Savings Bank of Wood River today were found guilty of embezzlement by assenting to the reception of a deposit in a failing institution, and sentenced to two years imprisonment. Stowell A. Beach, chairman of the board of directors, who was indicted jointly with Clark and Hatridge was acquitted.

Clark and Hatridge were also fined $142.85 each, as the law provides that in case of conviction on this charge a fine must be assessed twice the amount the depositor lost, which in this instance was $71.44. The indictment was based on the reception of a $254 deposit from George A. Smith, superintendent of schools at Wood River on October 31, 1922. The bank was closed by the state auditor November 17, 1922, with a deficit of $169,000.

League Denies Charge

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Columbus, O., Nov. 2.—Joseph F. Carr, president of the National Football League, after reading the statement of Amos Alonzo Stagg, athletic director of the University of Chicago, which he described as "entirely without foundation."

On the contrary, Mr. Carr declared, the league is doing all within its power to build up the game, and that "it is a matter of common knowledge that the National Football League has done more in its few years of existence to purify football generally and make young men walk the straight and narrow path in regard to their amateur status than any other agency that has ever tried it."

Regarding stars playing under assumed names, Mr. Carr asserted, "our organization will not countenance anything that savors of deceit in any way."

Today's Market Report

Grains Open Easy; Close Some Firmer

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Likelihood of a further increase of the United States visible supply total on Monday gave an initial advantage to bears in the wheat market today. At the same time, falling interest on the selling side attacked proposed raising of the United States tariff on wheat, and asserted that such action would lead to retaliation from Canada. Reports of large shipments of grain from Russia also were given some notice, but wheat offerings here were readily absorbed and declines checked. The opening which varied from unchanged to 1/2¢ lower, Dec. 1.06 1/2@1.07, and May 1.11 1/2@1.12, were followed by a moderate general setback and then something of a rally.

Subsequently, wheat was firmer owing to a sensational report in cotton prices. Wheat closed steady at the same as yesterday's figures, to 1/2¢ lower, Dec. 1.06 1/2@1.07, and May 1.11 1/2@1.12. Corn opened easy with wheat. After opening 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ up, it up, 72 1/2@73 the market declined a little all around and then rallied. Oats started at 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ lower to 1/2¢ advance, Dec. 41 1/2@42 later held near the opening rate, with a moderate general setback and then something of a rally.

Provisions were higher. Later, the remarkable rise of the cotton market found some reflection in corn values. Corn values closed firm 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ not higher, Dec. 73 1/2@74.

SAYS FALL ASKED TRANSFER OF MEN WHO OPPOSED HIM

Oil Investigation in Capital Developed New Angle Today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 2.—Former Secretary Fall demanded the transfer from Washington of naval officers who objected to leases he proposed to make on naval oil reserves. Commander H. A. Stuart of the navy testified today before the senate public lands committee investigating the subject.

Commander Stuart, who testified he had been in charge of the naval reserves in the navy department from 1918 until April 5, 1922, said Secretary Fall had insisted that Secretary Denby should detach him and Commander Shafroth, he explained, also was connected with the reserve section.

Made After Objections
The witness said the demand was made after the two officers had presented to Mr. Fall their objection to the granting of certain leases which he proposed to make to the United States Navy Company to open wells on a naval reserve number 1, in California.

During the period the navy department had complete control over the reserves nothing had developed, Commander Stuart testified, for his removal from his position to transfer his administration to the interior department. The navy, he said, in handling the reserves, had received all necessary orders from the geological survey and the bureau of mines and was fully competent to administer them.

No naval officer, Commander Stuart testified, had approved the transfer and replying to an inquiry from Senator Walsh, democrat, of Montana, he said that although he had been in direct charge of the naval reserves for several years he was not consulted by Secretary Denby concerning the desirability of such a course.

Replying to questions, the naval officer said, that in his opinion Secretary Fall's demand for his removal from the city was due entirely to the views he entertained concerning what should be done with the naval reserves, and not to personal antipathy. He had no information in advance, he said of the plans of the interior department to lease Teapot Dome to the Sinclair interests.

ARLINGTON WOMAN NEAR DEATH IN CORN ELEVATOR
Her clothing torn from her body and screaming for help, Mrs. Sherman Anderson, wife of a farmer west of Arlington, was saved miraculously from death late Monday afternoon when she was caught in the "tumbling rod" of a grain elevator on the farm.

Only the fact that her husband appeared on the scene as the machine was whirling her around for the second time, accounts for her being alive although seriously injured.

Frantic with fear, her husband tore her clothing from her body and she lay limp upon the ground, the ligaments torn from the bones of her body. She was taken into the house and a doctor summoned. She will probably recover.

HALLOWEEN.
"OOO—OO—OO" cried the wind on "Hallowe'en, the moon could not be seen—
And from the shadows that fell about A hundred witches hurried out.

"Hoot!" cried the owl from the leafless tree,
And the screech owl answered: "To-wee, to-wee."
And the music they made—that feathered band—
Was heard the breadth of Elf Land.

Then from each toadstool, mushroom,
The elves and goblins came in view,
And filled the woods with such a noise
It chilled the heart of girls and boys.

And that is why good people say
On Hallowe'en 'tis best to stay
At home where lights and love burn bright,
Than wander out on All Souls' Night.

Of the pretty models from which she can make her choice this year.

Soft pink crepe, white crepe trimmed with pink or blue, white georgette over a pink or blue slip—these dainty frocks have no doubt of sophistication, but only the charm that is theirs by reason of their wearer's youth.

Apple Cheese Cakes.

Six apples, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 1 lemon, rich pastry.

Pare and core apples. Cut in thin slices. Put in a sauce pan with just enough water to prevent burning and cook until tender. Rub through a fine sieve. Add sugar and butter and mix well. Reheat, adding the grated rind and juice of the lemon. Stir in the yolks of three eggs and the white of one. Beat well and pour into patty pans lined with pastry. Bake in a moderate oven for 10 minutes.

Folkstone Cheese Cakes.

One and one-half cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup finely grated dried bread crumbs, 3 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 lemon, 1/2 cup currants, rich pastry.

Beat milk with bread crumbs. Cook over hot water for 10 minutes. Add butter, sugar, grated rind of lemon, salt and eggs well beaten. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Let cool slightly and pour into patty pans lined with rich pastry. Sprinkle with currants and bake until mixture is firm to the touch and pastry is done. It will take about half an hour.

Lemon Cheese Cakes.

One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 2 lemons, finely shredded candied lemon peel.

Use the grated rind of one lemon and the juice of two. Put sugar, butter, lemon rind and juice into a sauce pan and stir until sugar is dissolved. Beat the yolks of the eggs and add to the mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Let cool. Line patty pans with paste, three-fourths full with the mixture, sprinkle over candied peels and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

These recipes are calculated to make 12 small cheese cakes. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

ANTICIPATE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Dodge, who have sold their home and are disposing of their household goods will leave for California within a month or so. USE HEMSTITCHING TO JOIN YOKE TO THIS DRESS

An attractive and simple way to put this dress together is with machine hemstitching.

Turn under the edge of the yoke on the seam allowance and baste the fold, clipping the edge around the curve to make it lie flat. Gather between notches as indicated on the pattern.

Honored Rev. and Mrs. John Simpson

Miss Ella Pratt's Sunday school class of the First Baptist church held a scramble supper last evening at the home of one of the members, Mrs. Philip Kerz, in honor of their former pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Simpson, who with their two children departed this morning for their new home in Aurora, where Mr. Simpson has accepted the pastorate of the Park Place Baptist church.

A delightful social time was spent by all and heartfelt good wishes were extended Mr. and Mrs. Simpson for their happiness and success in their splendid new field of labor.

A business session of the class was held later in the evening, at which time an organization was perfected and officers were elected as follows: Teacher, Miss Ella Pratt. President, Miss Dewey. Vice President, Mrs. Johnson. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Streit.

read to the biennial convention of the council here today.

He cited the sword of Joan of Arc, the canon of Molly Pitcher and the ministrations of Florence Nightingale, as typical examples of woman in her role of a defender and congratulated the council on its work.

Election of officers for the coming term will occupy the session late today.

Declaring that "sponge is the only thing that does not migrate" and that immigration and the welfare of the emigrant is the most international question of the day, Dr. Kate Waller Barrett of Alexandria, Va., pleaded for an ore sympathetic attitude toward emigrants in an address before the convention today.

She complimented immigration authorities on the sympathetic method in which they were discharging their duty under the three percent law and declared that the law was a makeshift which did equal justice to the emigrant.

Her address followed a report on immigration, read by Mrs. M. L. Purvin of Chicago which reviewed conditions under the three percent rule.

During the morning the delegates endorsed several resolutions dealing with industrial relations, moral standards and child welfare work. Professor Marian P. Whitney of Vassar, chairman of the resolutions committee introduced the resolutions. Among the legislative measures which the council approved was an amendment to the constitution making possible a federal child labor law and a uniform marriage and divorce law. The blanket amendment, or equal rights measure which would place men and women on an equal footing was discussed in another resolution.

Invitations for the 1925 convention of the council were read from Salt Lake City, Indianapolis, Sacramento, San Francisco and Detroit but no action was taken.

FOOTBALL NEWS

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Big Ten football squads today held their final light practice before Saturday's games, which will make or mar the championship standing of several leading contenders for the title.

Old time close formation football and more modern open play will be combined in the clash between the University of Chicago, judged from the week's practice at both camps, Illinois' victory over Iowa and Northwestern, and Chicago's record of a goal line touchdown by a forward pass.

The contest will be the final homecoming and 55,000 persons are expected to fill the new stadium which will be formally opened.

Practice has indicated the Illini will rely on Grange, scoring ace, and Britter's kicking ability, and Chicago will base its hopes on a strong line, strengthened by the return of Lampe and probably Dickson, with the Thomas in the back field.

Michigan and Iowa, tied for Western Conference honors last year, are reported on edge for their clash tomorrow at Iowa City. Iowa's defeat by Illinois has diminished the hopes of Hawkeye adherents for a victory tomorrow, but the Iowa line strength has been cause for worry among Coach Yost's men.

The game may develop into a duel of wits between Uteritz, Michigan quarterback, and Parkin, the Iowa pilot.

Minnesota received the Northwestern squad today and both teams went through a light workout for their meeting tomorrow at Northrup Field.

A passing game is expected to be employed by both teams with the Gophers confident of victory after their showing against Wisconsin last week. Neither the Notre Dame-Purdue game nor the contest between Indiana and Hanover is attracting any widespread attention. Wisconsin is building up a new offensive during its two weeks respite and Ohio State anticipates little trouble with Denison Law.

MR. HUGHES SAID SOMETHING.

Charles Evans Hughes, addressing the world's dairy congress, enunciated a statement which might form a text for every pulpit and a motto for every home. He said, "Peace is not a final goal, but an opportunity."

It has never been charged that the secretary of state is a romantic idealist. It is his habit to analyze with minuteness every international suggestion for its political elements. The sentence quoted above is the statement of a business man as well as a statesman. The more the reader dwells on the second half of the sentence the more vividly will the relative values of peace and war stare him in the face.

Peace in itself is the wistful objective of all reasonable men. To the superficial mind, desiring it no less eagerly, it implies a placid breathing-spell, the removal of a haunting menace and an ever-present fear. Mr. Hughes penetrates beyond that and in three words sums up what peace consists of in its relation to humanity. It is an opportunity to work and produce and enjoy the fruits thereof.

But the speaker meant more than that. He was telling his audience that while there is peace men may get together in friendliness from all parts of the world and solve those problems in which lie the welfare, health and happiness of all people; that great co-operative movements in science and medicine and hygiene and food-study may advance uninterruptedly to major results which advance the whole standard of mankind.

It is a reflection for vision to interpret; in it is to be found the supreme argument against war and its futility. Men wish for peace; is it unreasonable to suppose that where their interest and their wish coincide they are willing to assure it?

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

MERRY BILL MOCKING BIRD

"Too wit, too wit, too weest, weest. Sugar cane is good and sweet," sang a little bird blithely.

Nancy and Nick peeped through the cane-stalks to see who was singing and saw a little gray and white bird sitting on top of one of them, singing as though his throat would burst.

"My, but you have a nice voice!" said Nancy. "What's your name, little bird?"

"My name is Merry-Bill Mocking Bird," answered the little bird, not a bit frightened at seeing a little boy and girl so close to him.

"And where do you live?" asked Nick.

"Oh, most anywhere at all," answered Merry-Bill carelessly. "I was born in my mother's nest, snugly hidden in some Spanish moss in an old oak-tree near a house in Dixie Land. I stayed at home until I was educated and since then I've lived most any place at all."

"Were you educated?" asked Nancy.

"Flying and singing and a few manners," said the little bird. "Although I am afraid I didn't learn any too many manners because I love to tease people so. Besides I can imitate any sound I have ever heard. That's where I get my name. I can mock anything from a cat to a sawmill."

"I know a bird that can do that!" said Nick. "He's called Casper Cat-Bird."

"Well, I declare!" said Merry-Bill. "Isn't that interesting though! Casper Cat-Bird is my cousin and he learned a lot from me. He can do almost anything that I can do."

"Say, Mister Mocking Bird," said Nancy "can you go like a robin?"

"Can't I, though! Just listen!"

"Cheree cheree, red and sweet red and sweet."

"Good to eat eat eat eat eat!"

"That's fine!" cried the twins, clapping their hands with delight.

"Can you go like a crow?" asked Nick eager for more.

"Can't I just listen!" said Mister Mocking Bird, and he went "Caw caw caw!" exactly like Chris Crow out in the corn field.

After that he gave a regular concert, imitating every bird he knew from a wren to a poll-parrot.

"That's grand!" said Nancy. "I think mocking birds must be the smartest birds there are in the world. Is there anything we can do for you?"

"I think not, thank you," answered Merry-Bill happily. "Except to come and see me again sometime. Goodbye!"

"Goodbye!" said the twins as he flew away.

A JAZZ RECORD BY BERTON BRLEY

Sometimes a moniker goes on my mind. Runs like a tune through my head. And "Peter B. Kyne" is a name of that kind.

(His stories you've certainly read. I find myself making a fool little song nonsensical in its design, A metrical whimsy step-stepping along.)

I hope he won't take it amiss. The chorus goes something like this:

"Oh Peter B. Kyne to me,
Peter B. Kyne,
Your label just fits my poetical line,
Your name has a bit which I cannot define
It's 'Peter B. Kyne to me,
Peter B. Kyne!'"

Booth Tarkington's name is entitled to fame.

And I get a kind of a throb, When here and anon occurs Something in monikers Such-as, as "Irvin S. Cobb." And "Edna St. Vincent Millay" Possesses a name in a way Quite fit for a lyric design. But no other title has quite such a vital Enchantment as "Peter B. Kyne."

I sing it in various keys, I use it in verses like these:

"Oh Peter B. Kyne to me,
Peter B. Kyne,
The name fairly jingles, It tangles like wine, And by the same token That natal cognomen Keeps jingling along through this nonsensical tune."

"Oh Peter B. Kyne to me,
Peter B. Kyne!"

KNOW Thy Self

CIRRHOSIS

The person who leads the "simple life" does not fall a victim to cirrhosis or hardening of the liver.

This trouble, which always results fatally, unless taken under skillful treatment in its early stages, seems in the great majority of cases to be reserved for the high flyers in eating. Other favorite subjects are the inveterate "fats" and the socially convivial souls who drink a little to keep up custom but neglect or sidestep the real health of their bodies.

The disease is caused by over-eating of rich, highly seasoned foods, also by malaria, diabetes and the habitual use of alcoholic drinks. The old-time drinker was a good subject for cirrhosis. The present-day drinker has no time to contract the disease. He succumbs too quickly to the modern drinks. The toxic or poisonous part of alcohol is carried directly to the liver, unchanged, from the stomach and intestines.

It starts at once in its destructive work on the cells and connective tissue. The symptoms at first present nothing that seems to interfere with the portal circulation (blood circulation from the stomach, intestines and spleen, into and from the liver). Some loss of appetite, also a decrease in weight, with a sluggish elimination, coated tongue and dyspepsia, are some follow-up symptoms.

The process of shrinking and hardening goes on all the time, however, until the liver is reduced in size and altered in shape. The glands and bile ducts at last become atrophied, while near the final stage the liver is filled with fat particles.

A yearly health examination by your physician will help you to avoid any such condition.

At this moment it seemed to me that a peculiar glance passed between Sydney and Jack, and Jack said gruffly, "He is a nice little duffer, but you know somebody left him on our doorstep just at the right moment when Leslie's life hung in the balance, and I believe, in fact I know, that she must love him better than his own mother."

"That's quite true," I interrupted, "for I am sure that under no circumstances could I have given that baby to another if I had not borne him."

"You never know what you can do," interrupted Jack curtly.

"Yes, I do," I answered stubbornly. "I do not think very much of a mother who would leave her child on a stranger's doorstep."

"Perhaps the mother knew the circumstances, Leslie," said Sydney.

"What circumstances?" Into Jack's voice had crept a tone of truculency.

"Why didn't the papers have the story that Leslie's life was despaired of because she was mourning so over losing her child, and wasn't it whispered among her friends that it seemed as though the only course to pursue in bringing her back from death's door was to put a baby in her arms?"

GRIDIRON FACTS

By Billy Evans.

QUESTION

With the ball in possession of Team A, the situation is such that the player calling signals decided on a punt as the best possible play. The ball was kicked over the line of scrimmage, but a stiff wind that was blowing across the field, caused the ball to perform some freakish stunts in the air, resulting in a dispute as to the proper decision on the play. The wind blew the ball back and the kicker recovered it behind his own line of scrimmage. It did not touch the ground or an opponent while beyond the line of scrimmage prior to being blown back.

ANSWER

The continuity of the downs is considered as broken when the ball has been kicked and the opponents given a fair and equal chance of gaining possession of it. A kick shall be so regarded if the ball shall have crossed the line of scrimmage or it shall have been touched by an opponent. In the case cited while the ball at one time did cross the line of scrimmage, the high wind which blew it back failed to give the opposition a fair chance at the ball. Since the ball finally came to the ground back of the line of scrimmage it would have been proper for the referee to have ruled that the ball did not cross the line of scrimmage and instead of breaking the continuity of the downs should merely count as a down.

Railroads Unable to Reduce Freight

Washington, Nov. 1.—Railroad executives representing nearly all the trunk lines in the United States notified the Interstate Commerce Commission today that they would be unable to grant a voluntary reduction of rates of grain for export, which President Coolidge recently asked of them. No mention was made in the railroad's announcement, which was trunk line presidents, of their conclusions on the request of the President for a readjustment in rates of coal for export.

Edith Knew Her Well
ETHEL—Miss Older says Mr. Gotrich proposed to her Wednesday night but she didn't give her answer until Thursday.

EDITII—If that's true, I'll wager he popped the question at 11:59 p. m. and was accepted at 12:01 a. m.—Tut-tits.

BUYING POWER OF FARMER ONLY HALF IT'S LIMIT IN WAR

U. of I. Expert Bases Estimate on Figures from Two Counties.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 2.—Purchasing power of the farmer of Central Illinois has been cut almost in half of what it was before the war, according to an announcement of Prof. H. C. M. Case of the Department of Farm Management of the University of Illinois, who based his estimate on a report of net receipts per acre of farm land in Woodford and Tazewell counties.

In 1922 the average net farm income on ninety-nine farms in Woodford county was $8.08 per acre, as compared with a $18.44 average on forty-eight Woodford county farms in 1916, or the average net income of $15.35 per acre, from fifty farms in Tazewell county, adjoining Woodford, in 1915, Prof. Case said.

"In 1916 the farm income was increased by the rise in prices due to the World War," the professor said, "so that the figure for 1916 is more than that for 1915, showed the farmer's income to be above normal."

"This," he declared, "is perhaps the best means of showing the financial status and purchasing power of the farmer."

"On this basis we are justified in saying that in 1922 the farmer's net income in Central Illinois was probably only 50-60 per cent of the 1915 and 1916 net income. It is true that farm prices in 1922 were higher than in 1913 (a year frequently taken as the basis of comparing changes in price levels) but the farmer's operating expenses had increased out of proportion to the increases in selling price of farm products. For example, for the month of August 1922 the price of farm products was determined to be 31 per cent higher than in 1913, while the prices of over three hundred commodities in all lines of industry, which include the articles the farmer must use in the operation of his farm, averaged 55 per cent higher than in 1913. This comparison helps explain the fact why many farmers have been having financial difficulties and have accumulated debts during the more unfavorable years of 1920 and 1921 when farming was generally carried at a loss throughout the corn belt."

"On the basis of net farm income expressed in terms of the net receipts per acre, we are led to the conclusion that the farmer's net income in Central Illinois, for things not absolutely essential in the operation of his farm is little more than half that of the pre-war period. Out of this reduced income many farmers have been endeavoring to pay off the debts accumulated at the time of change in prices. In addition it must be recognized that the same articles cost much more than at the previous period, hence the necessary living expenses will consume a much larger part of the income."

In conclusion it may be said that the income of the farmer who owns a good farm enables him to enjoy a good standard of living if he uses his income for that purpose, but the man who has heavy financial obligations has his purchasing ability limited to the bare necessities. There are indications that many farmers have been liquidating their debts, but they are still farmers who are being forced into foreclosure because of inability to meet their obligations contracted during the more prosperous period or during the period of extremely unfavorable agricultural conditions."

"The limited income of the farmer is more fully appreciated when it is considered that the land in Woodford county was valued at $336 an acre in 1910 and 1920 land changed hands in this area at $300 to $500 an acre. It is believed that the valuation of $336 an acre used in determining the rate earned on the investment is in terms of pre-war values. This shows in another way that the farmer's earnings on his investment are much below a good return for use of capital."

NEEDS FITTING
New York.—The outcome of the world series has proved to McGraw that he must considerably strengthen his pitching staff if he is to stave off the rush that Cincinnati and Pittsburgh are certain to make next year. Another seasoned backstop of worth while ability would help the chances of the Giants. The infield and outfield are all that could be desired.

MARGARINE NOT A "SUBSTITUTE" SAY MANUFACTURERS

Is a Fine, Modern Food

Margarine is made and sold in an honest, straightforward fashion in accordance with the best ideals of modern American food production and marketing. It reaches the consumer in a carton that is plainly stamped "oleomargarine," so that the customer knows exactly what she is buying. In fact the high character of margarine as a pure, wholesome food is so pronounced that the producers are proud to be identified with the product.

Conscious of the sound ethical basis upon which the industry is operating, the margarine manufacturer naturally resents the constant allusion to his product as a "substitute," or an "equivalent." The use of the word "butterine" is to be deplored, as it gives the impression that margarine seeks to be sold in place of another and similar product. The food writers are as much to blame in this respect as anybody. Most of their denunciations start, "Margarine is a substitute," and even some dictionaries follow suit.

Margarine today is a prepared spread, but is no more artificial than any other food that is prepared by alternate heating, blending and chilling. The flavor of margarine pleases the taste of a great number of persons. Its ingredients are the best grade of their kind, are of known purity and wholesomeness. Modern methods of production are responsible for it being possible to offer margarine to the consumer at a price that is most moderate. It is a combination of value that has proved satisfactory to the taste of thousands of women—hence its wide sale. And it is marketed solely on its own merit. The immense increase in the use of margarine is witness to its wide popularity and to its merit as a spread and as a shortening. Last year the demand for margarine amounted to 209,000,000 pounds and of this large quantity Jellie GOOD LUCK Margarine, the largest selling brand, and the finest spread for bread, represented a large share. Such a record, made solely on the merit of the product, shows the advantage of doing business with branded merchandise, and is a crying refutation of any desire on the part of the margarine manufacturer to sell his product as a substitute.—Advertisement.

NEW HORN AT WOO
The reception room at the Palmer School of Chiropractic broadcasting station, WOC, at Davenport, Iowa, has been equipped with a loud-speaker horn, so that the waiting artists and friends of those on the program may enjoy the selections being broadcast from the studio adjoining.

The circuit is so arranged that the horn operates only when the door to the studio is closed, thus preventing any possible "feed-back" on the microphone.

WEAK SIGNALS
If the signals which are customarily loud from a station are suddenly found to be quite weak, the difficulty may be caused by one or more of the following:

The transmitting station may have reduced its power.

The crystal detector of the receiving set may be out of adjustment or may have become dirty. In the latter case the metal point which touches the crystal may be filed and the surface of the crystal washed with benzine or alcohol. Care should be taken not to touch the surface of the crystal with the fingers.

The receiving antenna may have become disconnected, or the ground connection may have become ineffective due to existence of insulating paint or gaskets used in making pipe connections.

The plate battery may be exhausted.

The filament battery may have become discharged.

The telephone plug may not be making good contact.—Radio Waves

ILLINOIS' GREAT MEMORIAL STADIUM WHERE THE ILLINI BATTLE CHICAGO FIRST, THEN WISCONSIN IN TWO BIG GAMES

This is the latest panorama picture of the great memorial Stadium at the University of Illinois which will be the scene of two big football games within a week—the Chicago game which opens it tomorrow, and the encounter with Wisconsin on Nov. 10, a week later. The Chicago game has rather overshadowed the battle with the Badgers but many critics believe that the Nov. 10 game will be of equal importance.

This picture gives an imperfect idea of the huge proportions of the stadium. It is more than 110 feet from the playing field to the top of a balcony. There are 75 rows of seats on the lower decks and 40 rows in the balconies.

More people can sit "between the goal posts" than in any other stadium in the world.

Yea pray for a revival throughout Dixon. Let God's hosts return home, but let God's handiwork remain, and the victory is won—not by human might nor power, nor by human means nor by calls to prayer but solely "By My Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts"; that God and God alone, may receive all the glory. (Isa. 42:8.)

"RABBIT" PASSES
Pittsburgh—The inside dope is that Rabbit Maraville is through at Pittsburgh. The Rabbit is hardly through as a player but rumor has it that Barney Dreyfus isn't exactly satisfied with the Pirate's infield and that a new shortstop will be welcomed. Identically it might be mentioned that Wright, crack shortstop of the Kansas City club, is certain to succeed Maraville.

BUSH HITS HARD
New York—Joe Bush of the New York Americans is one of the best hitting pitchers in the game. In the recent world series, Bush enjoyed a distinction that seldom comes to a pitcher. In the final game of the series, with the bases filled, he was the Yankee selected to do the pinch hitting. He walked on four straight balls showing the fear the pitchers on the Giants' staff had of him.

MADE 'EM HAPPY
Boston—It's a cinch that Earl Smith and Jesse Barnes traded by New York to Boston early in the season, wept no tears when the Giants were trimmed in the world series. Barnes was the outstanding hero of the 1921 series. Now he is with an also ran.

FUNERAL ASHTON HERO HELD FIVE YEARS AFTER END

Remains of B. G. Schafer
Given Military Burial in Ashton This Week.

Ashton—The remains of Benjamin George Schafer who died five years ago on Tuesday of last week at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, were shipped to this city Monday morning for final interment.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the home of his parents, and at 2:00 o'clock from the Evangelical church, conducted by Rev. H. C. Stephen, the pastor. Ashton Post No. 345 American Legion attended the services in a body, and at the cemetery a firing squad fired a volley and taps were sounded for the last Ashton veteran to be brought home from the war. Six sailors, Frank J. Gorham, Ray Arnold, Roy Fitzsimmons, Robert Anderson, George Bartholomew and Robert Brenner, Jr., of Dixon acted as pall bearers.

The funeral cortege left the church the public school children lined both sides of the street standing at attention.
The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schafer and was born in Bradford township, December 13, 1895. He grew to manhood on his parents' farm, and at the age of fifteen was converted under the labor of Rev. G. A. Walter, and united with the Evangelical church, remaining faithful to his Lord until the end.

Enlisted in 1913 he responded to the call of his country and on June 10th enlisted at Great Lakes. He set sail from New York on the U. S. S. Pittsburgh on August eighth of that year. While in South Atlantic waters Benjamin contracted Spanish influenza, and after a few days of illness broncho pneumonia set in and death followed. He was buried in the San Francisco Xavier cemetery at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in section 22 lot 24 and grave 10. A blue print of the cemetery and location of the grave was filed with the navy department at Washington, the United States consul at Rio de Janeiro, and also the keeper of the cemetery. When the government sent a warship to Brazil (this fall) to bring the bodies home the deceased was one of 48 returned. When the carrier reached Norfolk, Virginia, the identification tag which contains the identification number given the body and the number was identical with the registration number given the deceased's father. Although Benjamin's service with Uncle Sam was only a few months yet he endeared himself to his officials and many of his comrades as their letters will verify.

Besides the deceased's parents, he is survived by three brothers and three sisters, August William, Dysart Iowa, Minnie Elizabeth Komman, Garson, Iowa; Frederick G. Ashton, Harvey H. Athalston, Wisconsin; Lillian L. Vogel, Ashton; and Bessie Raub, Dysart Iowa.

GET "CONSCIENCE MONEY"
A. W. Rosecrans & Company receive

ed a very interesting letter yesterday morning by special delivery from Chicago. Inside the letter was a twenty dollar bill with a short note stating that the sender ten years ago had stolen merchandise at the Rosecrans store amounting to ten dollars. It is presumed that the extra ten dollars was for interest and the letter was signed, "A Penitent." The sender dared not register the letter for fear of the identity being known and used the next best means to safeguard the letter by sending it via special delivery. In speaking of the matter yesterday, Glenn states that he has no idea who could have sent the letter, but is thankful just the same and hopes that in some manner the sender will learn of the firm's appreciation.

"THE FOOL"

ILLUSTRATED

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries him. He is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity, New York, because of his radical sermons. Gilchrist is sent to the coal mines by Goodkind senior and his wife. A big strike is settled. A delegation of strikers comes north to interview the president and directors. They are received in Hennig and Umanski. They do not meet with much success. Umanski is angry because her dinner party is interrupted by Jerry's business meeting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I mean that that is where she was working. She's at her sister's now—up at Pittsburg. Left the day before I was elected to come up here. I sent her a telegram."

"You don't say so," said Goodkind, then turned to Jerry with "Anything the matter with that bell?"

"The man's busy, I suppose," said Jerry. "I'll show them out."

The elder Goodkind shook hands graciously with Stedman and Hennig. When he reached Umanski he found the immobility he had encountered before. The tall figure burned him with his eyes.

Stedman turned at the door to whisper the promise of a visit later, and Jerry, ushering them out, turned to inform his father that they were "swine."

The tardy servant entered with an explanation that he had been signing for a box he carried for Mrs. Goodkind. A moment later he handed it to her as she came from the music room. Clare evinced a little curiosity as to its contents, putting it under her arm unopened.

"Everybody gone?" queried Goodkind, looking up from a desk at which he had seated himself. "They're all down in the billiard room," she said with an infection that indicated she was either bored or angered. "We wanted to make up a couple of tables of bridge, but with the men in here—as usual. Where's Jerry?"

"Downstairs for a minute," replied Goodkind. "I've seen him just 10 minutes this week," said Clare.

"He's only been back three hours," laughed Goodkind.

"Well—and she was showing her disapproval now—"I wish he wouldn't break up my dinner parties."

Goodkind pushed back the papers before him and moved toward her. "What have you there?" he said, turning his eyes to the unopened box.

Clare started to open it. "Another—substitute," she said haltingly.

"Substitute? For what?"

"For my husband's time—and love—and companionship." She held up a stunning sable scarf and handed it unconcernedly to her father-in-law. "Hm! You don't seem much surprised," he said.

"No. Whenever Jerry's been away longer than usual, or has done something he's a little ashamed of, there's something of this sort for me." There was injured pride in her tone.

"Just have been a whopper this time," laughed Goodkind.

"Yes," said Clare seriously, her eyes taking on a look of calculation. "Pretty generous husband, if you ask me," said the husband's father.

"Yes." The answer was unconvincing. She put the scarf back into its box. Goodkind had caught the unhappiness in her attitude.

"Upon my word," he said, "I don't know what you women want. A man works his heart and soul out to get you things and still you're not satisfied."

Clare looked up appealingly. "Maybe we'd like a little 'heart' want?" she pursued, haltingly.

Experiment to Send Pictures Via Radio

New York, Nov. 1.—Major Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, today announced that his concern was conducting experiments to determine whether photographs could be transmitted by radio impulses. Further announcement he added, would be made as soon as tangible results were obtained from tests which have been in progress for several months.

At the same time General Harbord "regretfully" denied a story appearing today in a local newspaper to the effect that his picture had been transmitted by radio 9,000 miles to Warsaw and return.

Clare stood before the mirror a moment, first brushing aside the intrusive tears, then covering their red wake over her shoulder in the glass that she saw the door open and Daniel Gilchrist came in.

dramatic tenacity in a darkened church room. He did not see her. He stood there, a meek figure, indeed.

Suddenly Clare turned. Gilchrist looked up in surprise, then, a bit doubtful, bowed and made a movement toward the door.

"Oh, come in," she said in bold invitation. "I'm just powdering my nose. Does that offend your reverence?"

"On the contrary," he said with a smile. "I agree with the man who said, 'Put your trust in God, but keep your powder dry.'"

They laughed, and with the laughter the wall that was between them crumbled and vanished.

and soul," she said, taking his own words.

"You're not crying?" he said, leaning over her. She looked up through tear-blurred eyes and nodded sheepishly. "My God," he said. "Can you beat it?"

She rose and walked to a mirror. "I'll be down in a minute," she said.

"Tell Riggs—will you—if any one comes, I'll be talking to Jerry." He followed her and put a hand on her shoulder. "And—buck up. There are people worse off than we are—and it's a great life if you don't weaken."

Clare stood before the mirror a moment, first brushing aside the intrusive tears, then covering their red wake over her shoulder in the glass that she saw the door open and Daniel Gilchrist came in.

They laughed, and with the laughter the wall that was between them crumbled and vanished.

"Half an hour ago," he said. "Had dinner?"

"On the train," he said. "Thank goodness, they didn't charge for dinner by the mile. Riggs said your father-in-law was in here."

"He'll be up in a moment—won't you sit down? We haven't had five minutes together since."

"Since," he started. But the wall had risen again and there was an awkward pause.

It was Clare who broke the momentary silence, a silence she dared not face because it brought memories, as all silences do.

"I understand you're very happy in your new profession," she said. "Yes," he answered.

"You've got everything—you want?" she pursued, haltingly.

"No, I haven't everything I want," he said frankly, "but I'm happy." "My father-in-law says that if you settle this strike you're to be—She put her hand to her mouth in a gesture of self-reproach. "—but that's a business secret." She paused. "I suppose I might tell you, though. He says it'll make you a big man in the company—with a tremendous salary. You mustn't give that away?"

"The secret?" asked Daniel, smiling.

"The salary," said Clare. "I suppose you've got over that." He smiled. "So—you don't really seem to have lost anything by giving up your church."

"No," he said thoughtfully. "Queer as it seems, sometimes I think I've gained—in opportunity."

Clare looked away, reflectively. "Perhaps one might have eaten one's cake and had it, too," she said, chiefly to herself.

"Clare!" Gilchrist turned eyes that were half eager, half reproachful, upon her.

"You frightened me so that night with the bugaboo of poverty," she went on with something of despair in her voice. "Don't you think there might have been a compromise—something half way?"

He turned away. "Why open wounds that are beginning to heal?" he said protestingly.

"You seem quite healed," she said, a little enviously.

He stepped nearer and looked at her intently.

"And you have everything you want?" he asked tenderly solicitous. His tone prodded her pride.

"Yes," she said with something of her impulsive defiance.

"You see—I was selfish—to ask you to give up the things that count so much with you for those that count with me." He was quietly earnest. "Afterward, when I knew you were to be married—I—"

"I was wrong again. You're happy—and I'm honestly glad."

She was looking at him quizzically. "Are you—honestly—happy?" she asked slowly.

"Honestly," he said. "In just helping others?" He nodded his answer.

"I don't understand that," she said.

"You will—some day—and so will all the world."

Jerry found the two face to face and he came in, a bit unsteadily. He had added several brandies to a generous allowance at dinner and was in none too genial mood.

"Hello, Gilchrist," he said gruffly. "In early aren't you? I didn't mean to interrupt a tete-a-tete."

"You're not interrupting," said Clare, embarrassed not by Gilchrist's presence, but by Jerry's liquor-freud tongue.

"We've been having a merry evening with your delegation," Jerry said to Gilchrist. "That's why my wife's sore."

"I'm not sore," said Clare. "I've just been a little lonely."

"You don't look it!" Jerry surveyed the pair. "I couldn't help going to Black River. I didn't go for pleasure—did I, Gilchrist?"

"No," said Daniel easily. "There was work and plenty of it. I was sorry you had to leave when you did."

"Why, Jerry didn't leave much before you, did he?" Clare asked, puzzled.

Jerry stirred nervously. "Just a few—" he started, but Gilchrist also had begun an answer.

"Only 24 hours," he said. "He wanted to get back to you."

"But—he's just got back," said Clare. She turned to her husband.

"Where have you been, Jerry?" he asked impatiently.

"Of course," she said resignedly. "Good night, Dan." She picked up her box and started to leave.

"Oh—you got the furs," put in Jerry cheerily.

"Yes, thank you," she said without looking up.

Pinchot is Wearing Democratic Skypiece

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—The big, broad-brimmed black "sky piece" once worn by Governor Pat Neff of Texas today graced the brow of Pennsylvania's republican governor.

The hat a gift from the Texas executive on condition that the Pennsylvania wear it at the next republican convention arrived today. Governor Pinchot immediately clapped it on with the comment that "my kind of a republican can wear a hat of his kind of a democrat."

The gift was the result of meeting of the two executives at the governor's conference in West Baden, Indiana, when Governor Pinchot tried it on and Governor Neff offered to present it to him. Mr. Pinchot accepted it with the conditions attached.

It bears the name "Pat M. Neff" within the crown.

HUFF, HIS DREAM REALIZED, TO GET HIS "I" TOMORROW

Great Stadium at U. of I.
Memorial to "Man" and
Other "Man."

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 2.—Back of the towering heights of a gigantic structure, the Illinois Memorial Stadium, the use of which will be inaugurated tomorrow, is the story of one man whose life dream is realized. That man is George Huff, director of physical education at the University of Illinois.

Years ago he conceived the idea of a new recreational field and stadium for the athletic activities of the institution with which he has been connected since 1888. In that year he was a member of the first football team that ever represented the University and he also played on the basketball team.

In 1895 Mr. Huff became assistant director of athletics and coach of the football and baseball teams and upon his appointment in 1901 to the position of director of physical education began working out the broad program of athletic education which has made him the outstanding national figure in sports.

As a coach Mr. Huff's record would make him noteworthy if for no other reason. But the 24 years of his career as a baseball coach were something more than years of winning 12 conference championships, sending up to the big leagues from the players he had developed such men as Lundgren, Falkenberg, Demmitt, Ereton, Bradley, Pfeiffer and others and, as a scout, discovering such men as Speaker, Ciolette, Luderus, Ruelbach, Schulte, Salter, Hoffman, Beebe, King Cole, Lobert and Pfeister.

Is for Clean Sport
As a well-known sporting editor has said in "Outing Magazine," "It is his attitude toward his accomplishments that should have first emphasis. To George Huff any sort of athletic enterprise is recreation. His men have always played to win but there has never been one slight whisper of criticism of their methods or of his. He believes in clean sport. He believes in athletic training for every man in college. So long as he is in control of affairs we know that Illinois athletics will be managed honestly, that their games will be played fairly and their men encouraged to live clean, honest, straightforward lives."

Years ago Mr. Huff conceived the idea of a new recreational field and stadium. When it became known how large a stadium he had planned, there were doubters who said "You'll never fill it!" Just as other doubters years ago said the same thing when he brought about an increase in the capacity of the stands on Illinois field, which then accommodated only 4,600 people.

Fostered Intramural Sports
But Mr. Huff knew better. In his years of service to the cause of athletics he had learned the value of athletics in the school curriculum and he had seen the need and met it in the School of Athletic Coaching. The pioneer school in the United States, and in the system of intramural athletics, which he fostered, a system which gives organized recreation to more than 4,000 Illinois men students against college athletics that it is athletics for the few who play on the varsity teams.

He carried the plan for the Stadium with him for many years and then the Illinois men returned from the World War it was suggested that the structure be built as a memorial to the men of this state who had served. With this as the dominating idea, the campaign to build the Stadium was launched. The success of financing the Stadium is due to the personality of George Huff. The burden of carrying that campaign and of "building that stadium for fighting Illinois" has rested upon his shoulders and the Illinois Memorial Stadium, the use of which is to be inaugurated with the Homecoming football game tomorrow, and which is to be dedicated next year to the "Illinois men who served" is no less a memorial to the man who has "served" for more than a quarter of a century—George Huff.

To Get His Letter
Huff tried on a new "I" sweater this week. Everybody around the gymnasium congratulated him. Strange as it may seem, the well known director, famous for his baseball and football prowess as an undergraduate, has no official right to wear the varsity emblem.

But he will have after Saturday morning. Then Huff and upwards of 100 other oldtime athletes will be formally invested with the "I."

It seems that back in the days before the fall of 1896, no varsity letter was awarded and many men who were famous in the early days of athletics are not entitled to wear the letter. George Huff has spent weeks compiling a list of the men who are to be awarded letters and there will be a big time Saturday forenoon when the formal presentation is made. The oldtimers who will return are:

"Merton of Movies"

Great ... Dixon
People Pronounce

"Merton of the Movies," continues to draw immense audiences at the Blackstone, Chicago, and it is pronounced exceptionally entertaining and enjoyable by a number of Dixon people who have attended.
Suddenly, not so very long ago, the everybody began to talk about Hollywood, California. From Ipswich to Rolling River, from Kennebunkport to Devil's Gulch, Mrs. Smith and her neighbor, the Widow Jones, left the dirty dishes in the sink to whisper confidentially in each other's ear the latest news of Hollywood.

The news was the news, and never would Hollywood have taken a place apart from any other young American city of its size. Just how the news ever reached the Widow Jones nobody ever stopped to inquire. It was sufficient that she knew. The Widow and many similar Widow Joneses throughout the country juggled the reputations of their favorite screen actors back and forth across the fence and when they got tired the reputations just fell in the mud for want of support and the participants in the little game were content to let them lie there.

But the funny part about the whole game was that no matter how many ugly things the gossips said about Hollywood, about Mary Pickford and Harry Souface, and their latest escapade, they never failed to scrape up a few dimes to plank down at the box-office when the electric signs proclaimed Mary and Harry's star in "She Drugged Him Power"—in five reels. They went to the theater in droves, and they kicked when they couldn't get down in the front row so that their eyes would hurt when the picture was over.

And so Hollywood became famous and everybody in it became infamous. Then along came somebody with a sense of humor. Harry Leon Wilson, the novelist, saw humorous possibilities in the situation. Why not, when everybody was in the humor, just poke a little fun at the movie and make 'em like it? Make it good-natured fun that everybody, even the movie folk themselves, would like. And he wrote a book, "Merton of the Movies," which was published serially in the Saturday Evening Post.

The book was an immediate success. It radiated good nature. It was a form of the recently developed American art of "kidding." For Tyler wisely gave them the book to read—and easily won their consent to turn the book into a play.
Glenn Hunter was selected to play the title role and Florence Nash "the Montague girl." Hugh Ford, who had worked as a motion-picture director and who was once general stage manager for Mr. Tyler, was chosen to put the piece on. The first performance was given at the Montauk Theater in Brooklyn. Monday evening, October 2, 1922. From the first the play was marked for success. The news of the success spread rapidly and on November 13 last it opened in the Cort Theater, New York, where it is likely to stay for a long long time to come. Glenn Hunter, Florence Nash, and the original New York cast are to be seen in this delectable comedy.

Chicago—Automobile rides and balls are least popular among convention visitors in Chicago.
The notion that a convention has to have its time filled up either with serious speeches or distracting entertainment gets a denial from George Hull Porter and John F. Bowman of the Association of Commerce convention bureau.

Convention crowds want time to look around independently. There are plenty of sights to keep them interested without a frenzied entertainment schedule.
These statements are based on experience with hundreds of conventions.
This story comes as an aftermath to the policemen's field day held early in the fall. One patrolman who got himself excused from duty regularly to practice for the night, was suspected of using athletics to dodge work. His captain quizzed him as to what place he sought on the track team.

"I'm ready for any event you've got," the man announced.
"How about the pole vault?" asked the captain. "We need somebody for that."
"Just give me another week's practice," was the reply, "and I can throw the thing out of the lot."

There were 743 conventions here last year, besides 650 others which had less than 50 in attendance. The names of the organizations would make a chapter in American terminology. For instance, there is the Exalted Society of Order Hounds. And the Ancient and Honorable Order of the Blue Goose, which has one official entitled the "keeper of the golden goose egg." And the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, presided over by the "snark of the universe." All have a serious purpose.

While this part of the world is striving itself to send missionaries to foreign lands, the heathen isn't playing altogether a waiting game. A single Moslem missionary, having set up a temporary mosque on the South Side here, reports 650 converts in the last six months. His name is Malusi Muhammad Din, and he is a student at the University of Chicago.

A squirrel is teaching thrift to Chicago, probably the most influential taught perseverance to Robert Bruce. The squirrel entertains a crowd daily with his antics in the window of a Loop bank, while in the background a sign advises:
"If a squirrel has sense enough to save nuts for the winter, you should learn to save your money for a rainy day."
